How to use:

1, STRAIGHTENING HAIR

For optimum styling, hair should be clean and dry.

1. Starting with sectioning the hair into strands of not more than 1/2-inch thick and 2 inches wide.
2. Take one section of hair at a time and place iron as close to the root as possible and slide through to the ends without stopping.
3. Do not pull through too quickly, straightening each section once and slowly will give a far better result than straightening each section multiple times quickly.
4. Repeat this process until all sections are completed.

CREATING CURLS AND FLIPS

For optimum styling, hair should be clean and dry.

1. Starting with sectioning the hair into strands of not more than 1/2-inch thick and 2 inches wide.
2. Place the iron as close to the root as possible and slide through the hair slowly in a downward motion simultaneously twisting and turning the iron.
3. Do not curl too quickly, curling each section once and slowly will give a far better result than curling each section multiple times quickly.
4. Repeat this process until all sections are completed.
